

Integrate Premium Content to Your Web, Intranet or Portal Environment

Now even easier using new features of LexisNexis™ Publisher

New Display Options for the End-user View

Display by Date/Topic, or by Topic/Date

- Date/Topic groups the documents by date published by the editor, then by topic beneath each date
- Topic/Date groups the documents by topic, then by date beneath each topic

Display up to 100 documents in Document List

Sometimes you have a long list of truly relevant documents. Now you can show up to 100 of them.

For the Editor

Document expiration notification

You will be notified within the tool when documents are about to expire.

- Documents set to expire in seven days will be marked with yellow on the check box.
- Documents set to expire in one day will be marked with red on the check box.

Search multiple sources

Improved source selection navigation for choosing multiple sources for your search.

Publish multiple documents to multiple topics

In a single step!

Remove HTML when previewing

When you're working within the tool using the preview function, you can remove the HTML that frames the full text document. It doesn't impact the end-user view at all. It just allows you to see more of the document you're previewing.

Expanded Integration

Your LexisNexis account team can help you make arrangements for these options.

- "Crawling"
- Fully index with your Web search engine using .XML

*Customer Support for LexisNexis Publisher is available to you anytime, day or night
1.877.810.5325*

Visit www.lexisnexis.com/publisher to download the latest version of the LexisNexis Publisher User Guide, or contact your account representative for more information.
